

Ike Plugs for Tax, Farm Bills

NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK—If you have endurance and are persistent you'll be able to take your driver's license test.

An Evening Telegraph reporter seeking a driver's license finally got near the head of the line of applicants on his third try. He said that the Lee county headquarters at Amboy and the Ogle county station at Oregon are doing a booming business.

One woman at Oregon said she brought her two young sons to the Ogle county courthouse at 6 a.m. to have them register for their tests at 9 a.m. (Examiners are not allowed to make appointments in advance.)

Our reporter made tries at Amboy Thursday and Friday and found that the day's quota already was on hand. He finally got in the quota Tuesday at Oregon where the same examiner, Sam Thienes, conducts the exam. He waited four hours before Sam was able to take him out for his road test. He passed his test.

The reporter's check found that dozens of would-be drivers are constantly "bucking the line." They finally make it by getting up early and talking fast.

Examiner Thienes explained simply that he was unable to handle the load. He looked to state headquarters for relief, but thus far none has been forthcoming.

We checked the driver's license branch of Sec. of State Charles Carpenter's office this morning.

A spokesman for the office said that the driver's license jam-up is a source of complaints throughout the state. When the driver's license division was incorporated under the office of the Secretary of State last year, it was estimated that 70 examiners would be required to man the stations. Since that time the number of examiners have been swelled to about 120.

Still the number of examiners is insufficient, said the spokesman. The condition won't improve, either, he indicated. The department's appropriation won't permit the training of an additional group of examiners. Unless the number of driver's license applicants declines, you can expect the wait-in-line process to continue—at least until the legislature gets around to appropriating more money for examiners.

Our reporter said that Examiner Thienes, although hard-pressed, was reasonably courteous in explaining the reasons for the delays. He said, also, that Sam was practicing no short-cuts in giving the examinations although it would have been expedient to issue some "quickie" permits to impatient taxpayers.

This is an explanation of the local slow-down in giving driver's license exam. Our Springfield contact said that he would "do everything possible" to grant some relief to Lee and Ogle counties.

We hope it is possible. Some of our local taxpayers are beginning to complain of what appears to be a severe slowdown in a routine state function.

Driver Asleep, Car Rambles Into Cornfield

OREGON—(Special)—William Pennington, 21, Rockford, awoke Tuesday night to find his car speeding through a corn field and heading toward a clump of trees. He managed to leap from the car moments before the auto crashed into the trees.

Reporting to the Ogle County Sheriff's office, Pennington said he was driving north on Rt. 2 about one mile north of Oregon when he fell asleep.

His car crossed the highway, broke through a fence and traveled about 500 feet through the field before the driver awoke.

Pennington was not hurt. The grill and front fenders of his auto were damaged.

Six Pathologists Conduct Second Thorne Autopsy

Try Again to Determine Definite Cause of Death

CHICAGO—(P)—Six pathologists today began a second autopsy on the body of Montgomery Ward Thorne while an inquest sought to determine where the mail order heir spent his last hours before his mysterious death in his room.

Thorne's body was exhumed Tuesday in Rosehill Cemetery. The new autopsy began at the County Morgue in a second effort to determine definitely the cause of his death June 19. The autopsy may require several days.

Jack Goggin, 23, advertising man, testified at the sixth session of the inquest concerning a birthday party he held in his apartment across the street from Thorne's apartment building, which started the night of June 18 and which he said continued until about 4 a.m. Thorne, 20, is believed to have died around 5 a.m.

Did Not Attend

Goggin testified that Thorne did not attend his party and that he barely knew the heir. He said he visited the fourth floor of the apartment building in which Thorne's room was situated about 6 a.m. and saw nothing unusual there.

The Cook County Board Chambers, being used for the hearing, was packed to the walls with witnesses, cameramen, newsmen and spectators in heat of about 90 degrees.

Goggin said the party was held on the occasion of his 23rd birthday and was a "bring-your-own liquor" affair.

He estimated that some 74 persons attended the party in his 3½ room flat, not all at one time.

To Visit Friend

Goggin said he met Monty Thorne only once and that was "well over a year ago. None of dence of any gathering of any sort" in any of the rooms near the Thorne room on the fourth floor.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron is seeking to determine whether Thorne died a natural death, succumbed to drugs or was slain nine days after he made major changes in his will.

Three Causes

Dr. Harry Leon, coroner's physician, has concluded that the 20-year-old Thorne died from a combination of narcotics, a sleeping potion and wood alcohol. He opined that a second person administered narcotics into the youths veins.

McCarron enlisted the aid of four prominent pathologists when some physicians disagreed with published reports of Dr. Leon's findings.

The team of pathologists said that in the tissue sampled they studied they did not find poisons in sufficient quantity to cause death. They recommended exhumation for more thorough examination.

Nine Suspects

Meanwhile, investigators reported they have determined that at least nine persons were near Thorne's room in a near North Side building at about the hour of his death.

The persons were either in nearby rooms or were seen in the corridor outside Thorne's door.

McCarron said efforts will be made to locate the last person or persons to see Thorne alive.

Thorne, in a second will, left three-fourths of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Ragen, 18, and her mother, Aileen. His own mother, Marion, who was sole beneficiary in the original will, was bequeathed a one-eighth share.

U.S. Sending Smith Back to Conference

Attlee Hits U. S. Ban on Red China

Big 3 Ministers Meet Again Over Indochina Peace

PARIS—(P)—Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. Undersecretary of State, will go to Geneva soon to represent the United States at the Geneva conference, a communique issued by the three Western big power foreign ministers announced today.

Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Premier Pierre Mendes-France issued the communique after two days of meetings. They said Smith's presence at Geneva would satisfy British and French demands for a high level American representative at Geneva without departing from Dulles' principles against his own presence there.

Just before the communique was issued Clement Attlee, leader of Britain's Labor opposition, said the United States, by failing to return to the Geneva conference, would be "playing right into the hands of the Communists."

Links Korea, Indo

Attlee told the House of Commons the Indochina question was bound up with that of Korea, and both were involved in the question of Chinese representation in the United Nations. He assailed the United States for its stand against such recognition for the Red Chinese.

Prime Minister Churchill, replying, accused Attlee of making "one long whine of criticism against the United States and of course advancing the importance, if not the virtues of Communist China."

Churchill emphasized that Red China was still technically at war with the United Nations and was "stimulating the war in Indochina."

Wants to Help

In Washington, President Eisenhower said Dulles' aim in attending the talks with Eden and Mendes-France was to help rather than hinder an Indochina settlement. He said Dulles went to Paris because of the United States' eagerness for a united front with its allies in Western Europe.

During the talks which started here Tuesday evening, the three statesmen were believed to have outlined concessions which might be made to bring a halt in the fighting in Indochina. The ministers met alone again this morning, while a technical committee was putting this outline down on paper.

There was no hint as to the peace terms discussed.

Dulles is known to feel that France has the primary responsibility for settling the war, since she has carried the principal burden for almost eight years. As one source put it, the United States has furnished money, but money is no substitute for blood and lives and the United States should not try to dictate a peace settlement on the basis of its financial contribution.

Urgent Request

Dulles came to Paris after Eden and Mendes-France urgently requested his presence at the Geneva talks. Although apparently firm in his resolution not to go to Geneva, the moral support his visit here gave the British and French ministers seems to have been enough to spark optimism about a final settlement.

Even after this morning's meeting, however, Dulles' final attitude on America's role in the talks was still left open for modification in the future.

The three ministers began today's session just before noon, meeting at the French Foreign Office.

Sgt. Van Meter Gets Promotion Wins Police Captaincy In Police Board Exam

Sgt. Jack E. Van Meter, 37, of 122 E. Fellows St., Friday will be installed as the first police captain in Dixon's history.

City Police and Fire Commissioner C. L. Ballard informed council members of this action of the city's police and fire board Tuesday night. The board has the power to appoint all police and firemen except department chiefs, who are chosen by the council.

The post of police captain was created by the city council at its June 16 meeting. The position provides for a salary of $325 per month, in contrast to the monthly salary of $310 that police sergeants now receive.

Ranked By Chief

The police captain will be ranked only by the Chief Frank Tyne. Van Meter's promotion leaves the force with two remaining sergeants Burton Lorenzen and Earl Kelchner.

Van Meter's appointment was made on the basis of "seniority in service, merit and the results of a test" administered to the city's three sergeants last Wednesday. Results of the test and other factors were weighed by the police and fire board. Ballard said that "I even took the test myself, but was not informed of any of the results."

Seniority Figured

According to a board letter, read by Ballard to the city fathers, the competitive examination counted 50 per cent in the choice of a captain. Van Meter was the ranking sergeant in terms of seniority, having been on the force about 12 years. Lorenzen has been on the force about 10 years, and Kelchner has been a police officer eight years. Seniority also included the officers' military service records.

"Merit" was defined by Ballard as to "the general appearance of the men and their ability to get along with the public." Ballard said he and others were asked to make recommendations on these points.

Two Sign

The board letter informing the public of its choice was signed by Chairman Elmer Jones and Secretary G. L. Kaufman. The signature of board member Joseph F. Vener was not on the letter.

Captain-Elect Van Meter is married and has two children.

In routine action Tuesday evening, the city council paid bills totaling $14,341.57.

Cool Front Dispels Heat In Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The season's most extensive and most severe heat wave pushed eastward to the Atlantic today while a cool front from the northern Rockies began moving into the Midwest.

But no relief was in sight for south-central sections of the country, where seven consecutive days of plus 100-degree heat have taken a toll of crop and poultry losses.

Heat deaths mounted to at least 17 across the country and more records toppled Tuesday as the sweeter belt stretched from southern Texas and South Dakota eastward.

Oklahoma counted 5 heat victims, Colorado, 4; Illinois, 2; Missouri, 2; Iowa, 1; Nebraska, 1; Louisiana, 1; and Pennsylvania, 1. The heat wave was centered in southeastern Kansas and north-eastern Oklahoma.

The day's highest official reading was 114, reached at Ponca City, Okla., and Emporia and Chanute, Kan.

Bennett Champ Butler, 64, Ex-Missouri Senator, Dies

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (P)—U. S. Circuit Court Judge Bennett Champ Clark, former Democratic senator from Missouri, and son of the long time speaker of the House, is dead at 64.

He collapsed of a heart attack Tuesday while vacationing with his wife, Violet Heming, former Broadway stage actress and current television star.

Born in Bowling Green, Mo., he was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1913 and received his LL.B. degree from George Washington University in 1914.

Clark was parliamentarian of the U. S. House from 1913 to 1917. He was appointed to the post by his father, Champ Clark, then the speaker of the House.

He was U. S. senator from Missouri from 1933 to 1945 when he was appointed an associate justice of the U. S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

A veteran of World War I, he was a former national commander of the American Legion and president of the National Guard Assn.

His first wife, Miriam Marsh, died in 1943. They had three sons, Champ, a member of Time

He Claims Proposals Benefit All

American People Lost When Health Bill Rejected, Says

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower nudged Congress today for quick passage of his tax and farm programs.

He said the tax program would help the economy expand and create more jobs and his farm proposals would benefit the entire country and thus prove to be the best kind of politics.

Eisenhower also told a news conference that the House members who killed his health reinsurance program simply don't understand the facts of life.

The American people lost, he said, when the House rejected the program 238-134.

To Carry On Fight

And, Eisenhower said, he will carry on the fight for such a program as long as he is in office.

In the field of foreign affairs, Eisenhower said he expected to announce something shortly, perhaps during the day, on the American-British-French talks in Paris on the Indochina question.

In Paris, a communique from the Foreign Ministers of the three nations announced that Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will go to Geneva soon to represent the United States at the conference there on the Indochina situation.

Eisenhower said Dulles went to Paris early this week to see, among other things, if United States representation at the Geneva talks would be helpful rather than damaging in reaching an Indochina settlement.

Fundamental Principles

He said Dulles' visit reflects a great concern on the part of this country to keep a united front on fundamental principles with its chief allies, Britain and France.

The President also made a formal announcement that South Korean President Syngman Rhee's July 26 visit to the United States will be to make further plans for "the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea."

It was announced in Seoul earlier in the day that Rhee would visit Washington. Eisenhower's statement said he invited the South Korean President some time ago to make a state visit.

On Other Matters Eisenhower Said:

1. He is not going to let his proposal for a limited share-atom program for peaceful purposes die if he can help it. This is the program he outlined before the United Nations last December.

It calls for participation by the Russians as well as this country's allies. The President said he was sure British Prime Minister Churchill agreed with him the plan should not die even if some people—meaning the Russians—will not go along with it. His meaning seemed to be that an atomic pool without the Soviet bloc is a possibility.

Parity Raise Wrong

2. He thinks the Senate Agriculture Committee made a grave error in voting to raise the sup-

Virginia Demos Name Candidates

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The task of recapturing two of Virginia's seats in Congress from the Republicans was handed to Ernest Robertson and John C. Webb — both members of the House of Delegates — by Democrats Tuesday in primary elections in the 6th and 10 districts.

Robertson, a 32-year-old Roanoke County salesman with six years' experience in the State Legislature was the somewhat surprising winner over Powell Glass Jr., Lynchburg newspaper publisher and grandson of the late U. S. Sen. Carter Glass.

Webb, 38, a Fairfax attorney and a newcomer to the Legislature this year, topped a field of four in the northern Virginia 10th.

In 1952 the GOP captured three of Virginia's 10 seats in Congress in the Eisenhower sweep. Robertson will go against Republican Rep. Richard Poff in November. Webb will try to unseat Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va.), the first congressman to represent the new 10th.

The Democrats nominated Sheriff Pat Jennings of Smyth County several months ago to take on the third Republican 1952 winner — Rep. William C. Wampler of the southwest 9th District.

The seven Democratic Virginia congressmen had no primary opposition.

Harvard Youth Shot by Brother

HARVARD, Ill. (AP)—Twelve-year-old William B. Osgood was shot and killed Tuesday by his brother, James Jr., 15.

Dep. Sheriff Harry Herendeen said the shooting was accidental. Herendeen said William was playing in the house with James when James reached for a rifle and it discharged accidentally.

The bullet entered William's left cheek and severed an artery.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Osgood of Rural Route 2.

Pockmarks on the face of the moon may be due to bomblike hits by meteorites, according to some astronomers.

Navy Belt Saves Youth From Bullet

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Octavio Flores, 19, was feeling pretty chipper today — and very much relieved.

Flores and Lupe Perez, 17, were wrestling Tuesday when Perez playfully pointed a .32 revolver he thought was unloaded at Octavio and pulled the trigger.

The pistol belched smoke and flame and Flores crumpled to the ground holding his stomach and gasping.

But all the doctor at a local hospital did about it was place a small strip of adhesive tape on the youth's abdomen and tell him to go home.

A Navy-style web belt stopped the bullet from point-blank range. The slug was found between Flores' belt and his khaki trousers. Flores had a sorely bruised mid-section.

Fasting Finns To Learn Fate in Court Appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The fasting Finn twins learn today if it's food for supper or just the 23rd day of a starvation strike.

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals is slated to rule on an appeal for bail for the twins, who were sentenced to a year's jail term for interfering with a government officer.

The 40-year-old identical brothers, protesting against the "injustice" of their sentence and the government's seizure of their war surplus transport plane, have vowed to shun food until they die or are released.

In Headlines

Los Angeles newspapers report on the brothers' starvation rigors with banner headlines. Finn fan clubs have sprung up. Auto stickers with "Hurry up and help the Finns" have appeared on the highways. In Bakersfield money is being collected to help them.

Charles weighed 138 at the start of the fast and George, 135. Their latest weights are 112 and 111.

The Finn case started with purchase of a C46 from a school district near Bakersfield, where it had been used as a classroom. The Finns spent several thousand dollars reconditioning it and flew it 18 months. The government then began action to get it back, holding that the contract with the school district forbade its resale except for scrap.

Comedy of Errors

That touched off a comedy of errors with the twins flying the ship from Bakersfield to an airstrip near Death Valley. The FBI arrived to serve a contempt warrant for removing the plane in violation of a government order.

George had taken over Charles' post as guard and the FBI served the wrong warrant. In court, George wouldn't tell if he were George or Charles and got jailed for contempt. They were acquitted when their lawyer showed the government never had legal possession of the plane.

With the acquittal, the Finns thought the government acted illegally, and the Air Force was ordered to remove the ship to Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, Nev.

That's when they slapped handcuffs on U.S. Atty. Laughlin E. Waters as he left a hotel. The Finns said they wanted to make a citizen's arrest of the prosecutor but a federal judge thought otherwise. He gave them the year in jail.

That started the fast.

U. S. Reaps No Dividend of Friendship in Foreign Aid

In the debate on the $3,470,000,000 foreign aid bill, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio made an argument that bears a careful, critical look.

Noting that the United States has poured out more than $141 billion in aid since 1940 (and here he obviously is including Lend-Lease in World War II), Brown said we "now have more enemies and less friends than when we started."

Implicit in this statement is the notion that we have sought to "buy friendship" abroad with American dollars, and have failed. A good many lawmakers in recent years have been making similar comment, often quite outspokenly and in the manner of one making a great revelation.

Actually, no sensible legislator or diplomat ever imagines that money purchases the affection of foreign peoples. Aid can help to cement existing friendships, or help to develop them. But many other important factors must also be present.

We have not given assistance to many nations, in war and peace, in the hope of thereby winning their unwavering loyalty to all American views.

We have given it because we want these countries to remain free for their own sake, and because they must stay free if they are to be a part of our own defensive barrier against communism.

In some instances, we have quite understood that the recipients of aid might not only disagree with us on many things, but actively dislike us. But that has not kept us from extending the aid, and it should not.

Thus the point about what friendships we have or have not won with our dollars is largely irrelevant. The real question is: "Are the peoples we have helped still free, and in a position to aid the cause of freedom in the world (including America)?"

The answer must be a resounding "yes" with the single possible exception of Indo-China, now tottering on the brink. But Indo-China has been embroiled in a war most of the time since aid programs have been operating.

Is there any doubt what would have been the fate of France and Italy, and perhaps others, if we had not granted substantial assistance in the dark days after World War II?

As for the statement that we now have more enemies the fact is we have made no new enemies since the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia in 1948, the very year our vast postwar aid program began.

We do indeed have enemies today, that we did not have in 1940. But these consist of Russia proper, of its European satellites brought to heel by the Red Army or the threat of it, of Communist China, and of the Red puppets of Russia and China in North Korea and Indo-China.

These became our enemies not because any aid program failed but because Communist leaders after the war returned to their goal of global conquest, and had the power of the Russian and Chinese armies to back up their determination.

All the gold in Fort Knox could not have removed a single Red foot soldier from the soil of Rumania, or Hungary, or East Germany.

Foreign aid justifies itself as a great support to the free world system. It is not essential that the system be lubricated with honeyed words or friendship.

The Doctor Says:

Antibiotics Offer New Hope To Sufferers of Nephritis

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Bright's disease, or nephritis, may begin suddenly, either immediately after an acute infection, such as tonsillitis, pneumonia, or scarlet fever, or it may not show up until several months later. Sometimes it develops without any obvious reason.

In acute attacks of nephritis, the symptoms come on rapidly but painlessly. The patient feels uncomfortable and may notice some puffiness under the eyes.

SWELLING OF THE lower part of the legs, and perhaps even bloody urine, slight fever and chilly sensations are common. Nose bleeds, headaches, loss of appetite often appear.

The lessened amount of urine and its dark, bloody, or cloudy appearance are characteristic. Chronic nephritis starts more gradually, and symptoms resemble the acute variety, but are less severe. Accumulation of fluid (dropsy or edema) is common.

AS SOON AS diagnosis has been made by means of examining the urine and the blood, treatment should be begun. In acute Bright's disease, bed rest is necessary.

Diet is important and is now devised to fit the ability of the kidneys to take care of the food eaten.

In the chronic form of Bright's disease special attention is given to the accumulation of dropsical fluid. Drugs are frequently used to stimulate the secretion of the urine and thereby remove some of the excessive fluid.

ACCUMULATED FLUID inside the abdomen is often drawn off through a needle.

Much improvement has taken place in the treatment of nephritis. In that which follows acute infections, like pneumonia or scarlet fever, new hope is offered by the sulfa drugs and penicillin or other antibiotics. These drugs often stop such infections before they have had a chance to damage the kidneys seriously.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.).

NEW YORK—Monsignor Joseph A. McCaffrey, for 30 years Catholic chaplain of the New York police department, has taken sympathetic notice of my recent comments on the loathsomeness which has been suffered to flourish on West 42d street, in which his own Church of the Holy Cross stands as the rock of ages. My occasion was the dedication of a memorial flag-pole in further honor of the great Father Duffy of the 69th, New York, at Duffy Square where Broadway and Seventh avenue flow together and the green bronze giant contemplates a scene of moral decline. Father Duffy served the 69th in the first world war and was identified with Holy Cross parish and the Broadway of George M. Cohan.

Monsignor McCaffrey's authority on the conditions which have almost engulfed the region need not be labored. The toleration of this evil in a city which bids unsuspecting strangers to make New York their playgrounds is a subject of ironic reflection in his letter.

"You wrote," says Monsignor McCaffrey, "that 42d street 'used to be a theatrical rialto in the decent meaning of the term' and aptly describe it as 'now a stretch of sordidness.' That is so true. For the past 20 years, we have watched the deterioration and demoralization of West 42d street and the Times Square area. Despite protests of residents and business organizations in the neighborhood, the degeneration has become progressively worse.

"It is true that when the burlesque houses staged spectacles presenting scenes of immorality, perversion and bestiality, they were closed by the city administration. But, even in their heyday, they would not have dared to present the lurid, suggestive, indecent billboards that are displayed on the marquees of some theatres in the neighborhood at the present time and are a disgrace to the city.

"42nd Street with its suggestive, gangster and crime pictures; with its questionable auction sales; with its book stores and souvenir stores, openly displaying and selling to teenagers obscene books, suggestive pictures and sex pamphlets; its frequent blaring radios; its shooting galleries, poker, flea circuses, etc., all these must give the visitor to New York the impression that ours is a town where anything goes. And now a great campaign of advertising is being conducted to bring visitors to New York to view what is correctly termed 'a stretch of sordidness.'

"I note also, with pleasure, that in this neighborhood you see 'terrible people doing terrible things and yet decent families raise nice, polite, conscientious children in the midst of this (moral) squalor' and that 'religion and decency are still rife in this neighborhood.' "These remarks are unassailably true.

"For more than 20 years as pastor of Holy Cross church, I have had unlimited opportunities to observe and appreciate the character of the children of this area. It is true that the sights they see, such as the poor, unfortunate alcoholics, men and women, lying in hallways and doorways; the characters that infest the city and the general environment of the area are not conducive to instilling in children high ideals and uplifting thoughts. But, in spite of these conditions, I find them, the very great majority, developing into fine, loyal, God-fearing and country-serving young men and women.

"Of course, I may be accused of being partial, but I would say our children in Holy Cross parochial school are as honest, truthful, obedient, courteous, religious, neat and respectful of authority as children that come from finer homes in better neighborhoods. We may correctly say that they rise above their environment. This is a tribute to their parents, for it is universally conceded, I think, that though the church and school help greatly, it is principally in the home that a child's character is developed."

Monsignor McCaffrey's retirement from the police department a few months ago was accidentally emphasized by a spontaneous ovation of a multitude of cops to Senator Joe McCarthy who spoke on the subject with which he is now identified in American history. Cardinal Spellman attended, as was ordinarily appropriate to such a milestone in the career of a great priest. Yet this was the first public occasion at which the Cardinal had acknowledged McCarthy and his conduct was construed by McCarthy's friends and enemies alike as a comment on scurrilous reflections in much of the New York press on McCarthy's "background," including his education at Marquette university, a Jesuit institution.

In closing my own small memoir on the indomitable virtue of children raised in this region I recalled the story of Margie Regan, a pale, impudent little wisp who conned her way into a job as secretary to the late Jimmy Johnston, the matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, by representing that she had been Father Duffy's secretary. Later Margie disappeared to die quietly of tuberculosis at a sanitarium in Saranac. They were and ever will be a raffish crew, the prizefight mob, but Margie Regan and other young girls in the Garden offices were respected and immune.

Fred Digby, long a sport writer in New Orleans, now general manager of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, which produces the "Sugar Bowl" football game, had occasion to see a letter that Margie wrote Johnston from Saranac. It said, in part: "Dear Pop:

"I had a rough week and do hope you can come soon. And don't forget your promise to come when you are called to my bedside. For when I am dying, I want you near me. Any man who could make Abe Simon believe he could beat Joe Louis can make me believe I am going to Heaven."

Suit Gains New Glamor as New York Shows Fall Styles

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK—(AP)—The American woman's first love, the suit, gains new glamor as presented by that old master tailor, Ben Zuckerman, in a trend setting collection for fall.

The longer wrist-length semi-fitted suit, in high-color tweed, with matching satin lining, weskit, revers or ascot, is the star of the collection. It is shown in vivid ceramic blue, ruby red, jade green and purple, as well as in the less sensational vicuna and steel gray tones.

The semi-fitted, carefully shaped silhouette emerges at its best in this collection in both coats and suits. There is an ease and smoothness to the line that denotes perfect fit and room to breathe.

Tapered Loose Jacket

Next to the long-jacket suit in importance is the suit with tapered loose jacket that gently hugs the hips. Many of the dressier suits are collared in white mink or dark sable, while a number of fur scarfs are shown with coats. Dressmaker touches such as jeweled buttons and pins add a feminine touch to many of the suits.

The "Blouson" suit is starred by Harry Frechtel, who shows it in many fabrics and versions, along with the wide-collared corseted midriff suit and the costume consisting of seven-eighths coat and coordinated dress.

Open, stand-away collars, flat and wide, give a new look to many of the suits. Some are horseshoe-shaped, others square or portrait in line.

Herbert Sondheim places his bets on "palomino" beige and "burnt sugar" brown as favorite colors for everything from suits to evening gowns. He also spotlights a new rustic slub weave of a blend of dacron, worsted and silk in a group of outfits perfect for travel or office wear.

Four Members Of Rural Youth Attend Camp

Four members of Lee County Rural Youth enjoyed a week-end of camping at Shaw-waw-nas-see July 10 and 11. Seventeen counties were represented making it the largest District Rural Youth Camp ever held at Shaw-waw-nas-see.

Through group mixers, folk dancing, modern dancing, swimming and sports, the campers were given a wonderful opportunity to make new friends and learn new skills. Highlights of Saturday night's program were a watermelon bust and campfire which followed an evening of square dancing.

As guest speakers, the group was pleased to have two International Farm Youth Exchange members—one from Turkey and one from Scotland.

Sunday after church, the camp-tivities of sports and recreation got under way. Tired, but with pleasant memories, the Rural Youth's broke camp at 9 p.m. following a program of social dancing in the newly erected recreation hall.

Those who attended were Carolee Kaacker, of Ashton; Caria Russell, of Amboy; Frank Pilgrim, Sterling and Gene Pohl, Compton. Miss Lois Robbins, assistant home adviser accompanied the group.

Frank Pilgrim was elected to represent Lee County as camp continuation committee member and Carla Russell was chosen as alternate.

Schedule 4-H Camp, Stock Show, Sports

By EVERETT SMILEY
Ogle Youth Adviser

OREGON—David Johnson who played a "You All Come" tubba (washub, mop and string affair) and sang in the District 4-H Share-the-Fun Show won the chance to represent this part of the state in the state show at the State Fair on Aug. 14.

The One Day Camp will be held at Lowden Memorial Park this year on Wednesday, July 21, starting at 9 a.m. and ending sometime during the evening. Committees and appointees are as follows: Recreation — Lois Gocken and Grace Ann Hopkins. Food—Virginia Burkley and Robert Kreger. Evening Vesper—Ruth Feary and Romaine Schoonhoven. Nature — Bemis Eshbaugh and Norma Koerner. Handicraft — Barbara Weegins. Collene DeWall and Lorren Kappenman.

Changes in animal health rules and regulations for the 1954 fairs are held mainly to swine and beef. Illinois swine for exhibition within the state shall be accompanied by an official brucellosis certificate showing swine to have been negative to brucellosis agglutination test within 90 days of show.

A 4-Her must have a certificate from the veterinarian who did the vaccinating on a notarized affidavit giving date, manufacturer's name and serial number of serum and/or vaccine. Steers will need to be tested for tuberculosis and brucellosis for county show where complete isolation is not followed.

Chicago Junior Hog Show and Marketing Day will be held in the Amphitheatre, Wednesday, Aug. 25. Cash premium awards have been raised more than $600 over last year. Hogs grading in the meat-type category will bring $1 per hundredweight above the top basic price. So a 4-H boy can get more acquainted with what the packer wants by showing at this show.

Show classification — Individual and pen of three show will require pigs of 180-250 pounds, and an exhibitor can have only two entries in each class. A 4-H or FFA member can enter 20 or less hogs for grading. Entries must be in by Aug. 8. Rules and entry blanks may be picked up at the extension office.

District softball eliminations in the 1954 Illinois Farm Sports Festival are starting now and must be completed by Aug. 14, according to Roy Will, special services director for the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Some of the 171 teams entered must meet in all but two Festival districts to pare the entries down to 111 for the finals. Finals of the 15th annual all-sports event, sponsored by the IAA, will be held Aug. 26-27 at the University of Illinois.

District play will be held in six of the seven softball classes. Boys' 4-H class, with 62 teams, is the largest division. Ogle county has an entry in the 4-H division.

Will said trap and skeet shooters must be entered by July 24. The trap and skeet shoot, scheduled for August 4 at the Decatur Gun Club, is the last event before the two-day finals three weeks later.

At the Keeping Fit Day 58 4-H'ers turned in their scores to the two specialists from the University of Illinois. The specialists measured the body for growth and type and for muscular development and for endurance. Each boy or girl had to run 60 and 300 yards, do the standing broadjump, the arm pull, measure breathing capacity and do sit ups. After the 60 yard run the specialist checked on heart rate right after running and one minute after running to see how efficient heart is in getting back to normal. Results of total score will be received in several weeks from University of Illinois.

The Ogle County 1954 4-H Show will be held on Aug. 10-11 at the Oregon Fairgrounds. Each year there are several hundred 4-H members who show many and varied projects. The premium list for dairy and beef animals runs $4.50, A rating; $3.50, B rating, and $2.50, C rating. For swine it runs from $3 down to $2 and $2.50 down to $1.50, depending on the project. The money for these premiums is received from the state and Ogle County Farm Bureau.

What is the story on milk support? In 1952 dairy products bought by the government to support prices were equivalent to 0.3 per cent of the total milk production. In 1953 the government bought 8.3 per cent of 121 billion pounds of milk. An estimated 121 billion pounds of milk will be produced in 1954. The country's increase in population will need two billion of the three billion pound increase, so the government will have around one billion more pounds of milk in its hands this year than last.

So what can a farmer do to help this situation without financially hurting himself? There are cows that make no or little money for the dairyman and these are the low producers. Estimated annual expenses eliminated by selling cows producing 5,000 pounds of milk is $145 at low costs, $193 at medium cost and $242 at higher costs. And the average gross receipts per cow is $110 for 3,000 pounds, $137 for 4,000 pounds, $184 for 5,000 $220 for 6,000 and $357 for 7,000. So any cow producing three to four thousand pounds is hardly paying for itself, and those are the ones to be culled.

Milk production has been exceeding consumption at present prices. In order to balance supply and demand it will be necessary to produce less or consume more, or some of each. Recent reduction in milk prices should encourage consumption. However, lower milk prices should encourage production efficiency and the individual dairyman must adjust his "culling point" as cost and prices change.

The Home Economics 4-H Clubs will hold achievement day on July 28 and Aug. 4. On July 28 at 9 a.m. the first and second year 4-H clothing girls will exhibit their clothes at the Oregon Grade school gym. The show has been changed from the high school to the grade school for July 28. The three years and older 4-H clothing project girls will judge the first and second year clothing project supervised by Ester Seaman, DeKalb County Home Adviser. Demonstrations will be given at 10 a.m. The second achievement day for all other projects on Aug. 4 begins at 9 a.m.

Designer Takes Look At Future

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — If the world of today has you down, folks, just hold on—the world of tomorrow will be better.
A designing young man named Paul Wrablica, whose job is to help create new industrial products better geared to the needs of mankind, says that in 10 years our civilization will be more fun for everybody in the family—papa, mama, and all their little two-legged tax deductibles.
First, let us take up Wrablica's vista of joy for dad a decade hence:

Shorter Week
"The average man, because of greater production efficiency, will work only 30 hours a week—and for more pay than he gets now."
"This will give him longer weekends more leisure to enjoy the hobbies he likes. And their cost will come down. Suppose he likes sailing. Motor boats and sailboats will be molded from a single piece of plastic, as the bodies of some cars are now."
"That long wearisome ride from his job in the city to his home in the suburbs won't take so long. He'll spend there in a fraction of the present time in a jet-propelled monorail train."

Smaller Cars
"Even the parking problem will be solved to some extent with smaller cars and more automatic multi-level garages."
The housewife will have it even better, if the view in Wrablica's crystal ball is clear:
"Most homes will be air-conditioned the year round. This means less housework. There will be no danger of falling down stairs. There won't be many stairs. They will be replaced by elevators or inclined planes."

Wrablica, who teaches design at Pratt Institute, has another prediction that makes me even more wary about his drafting board dreams of life in America in 10 years. It's about beds.
Built-In Massage
"You won't have to worry about electric blankets in the bed of the future," he said. "It'll have thermostatic controls built right into it. It'll also have vibrating equipment—so you can lie in your own bed and enjoy a massage before jumping up to go to work."

Site of Historic A-Blast Just Dark Spot in Desert

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. — The eyes of the passengers searched the hazy distance, following the directing finger of the airliner's pilot.
Under the shoulder of bleak, barren Oscura Range, they finally saw what he was trying to point out.
It wasn't much, just a little dark spot in the desert—a little darker than surrounding land. That spot is all that remains to mark the first atomic explosion July 16, 1945.

Some months ago a construction outfit finished scraping up the glasslike substance formed of the surrounding sandy topsoil as the intense heat of the blast melted it.
The Atomic Energy Commission didn't want to take any chances that the desert wind might stir up radioactive dust from the trinitite as it slowly disintegrated.

The contractor scraped it up and buried it in a large pit nearby. Then the Soil Conservation Service planted grass. That grass is a little greener than the surrounding area. Maybe it gets a little more water because it's in a 1,100-foot-wide, 10-foot-deep saucer pounded into the desert by the momentous blast.

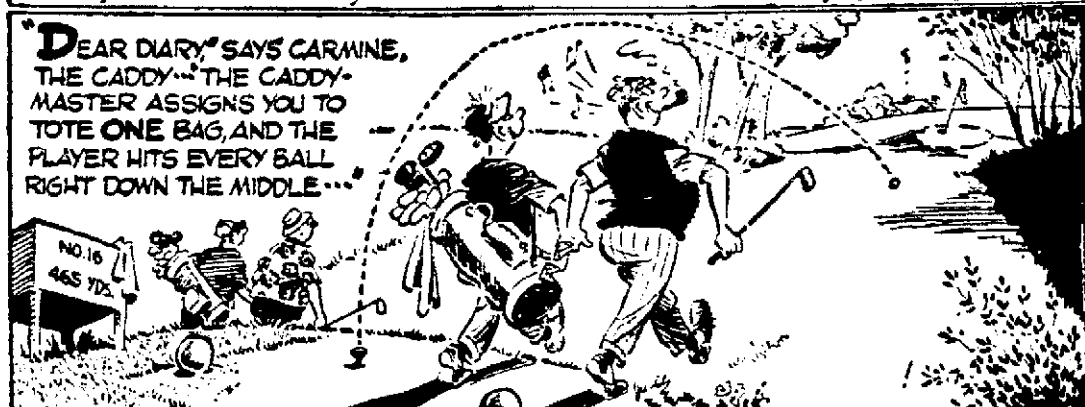

THE RULER—William J. Jernick, 53, of Nutley, N.J., is the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He was chosen at their annual convention in Los Angeles, Calif.

ISSUES WARNING — Sen. William F. Knowland (R., Cal.) says that if the UN admits Red China he will quit his job as Senate majority leader and devote all his time to taking the U. S. out of the UN.

'Forgotten' Convicts Win New Trial After 10 Years in Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Two convicts, "forgotten men" for almost a decade, have won a new trial after spending more than 13 years in prison.
They received the new chance on their claim that they did not have the benefit of legal advice in the original hearing back in 1941.

Here's the story:
Joseph Montgomery, then 21, and Lawrence E. Young, 23, were charged 13 years ago with kidnapping, first-degree robbery and car theft in St. Francois County, Mo. They admitted in court they got drunk and took a man in his automobile to St. Louis.

Plead Guilty
On their pleas of guilty, the St. Francois County Circuit Court judge sentenced each to life imprisonment on the robbery and kidnapping charges and five years for car theft. The judge, Frank Fenwick, has been dead for many years now.

After four years in the state Penitentiary here, Montgomery and Young hired a lawyer and filed a plea for release in the Cole County Circuit Court. Circuit Judge S. C. Blair, upon being told the men did not have an attorney in their original hearing, ordered them returned to St. Francois County "to be dealt with according to law."
But the St. Francois County judge, Norwin D. Houser at that time, said one circuit court couldn't undo the action of another circuit court. He said the record of the St. Francois court stood unblemished and ordered Montgomery and Young back to prison.

Orders New Trial
A few months ago Sam Haley, Jefferson City lawyer, heard about the case from inside the prison. He appealed to the Federal District Court in Kansas City.
Federal Judge Richard M. Duncan upheld Circuit Judge Blair's order that they be sent back to St. Francois County for a new trial.

Trim Foreign Aid Budget 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration goes back to Congress today with arguments for its foreign aid program, already trimmed by more than 10 per cent and facing further attempts to cut it further.

The Senate Armed Services Committee called Acting Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to a closed session today on the measure, now slotted to $3,100,000,000 by the Foreign Relations Committee.

The administration asked $3,448,108,000 in authorizations for the fiscal year that began July 1 and the House voted $3,368,608,000. The figures are maximums only; actual appropriations must be voted later.

Fear 12 Tots Drown When Boat Capsizes

MONTREAL — Eight or nine children were missing today in a mountain lake northwest of here where at least 12 tots were drowned when an overloaded pleasure motorboat capsized Tuesday.

The bodies of three girls and a boy were recovered before darkness suspended search operations. Several other children were rescued.

The tragedy occurred at about 62 Montreal Negro children 5 to 12 years old romped happily at a picnic on the shore of Lake of Two Mountains, 20 miles northwest of the city.

Jack Seligman, a Montreal man who has a cottage near Ile Bizard, offered to take the youngsters on boat rides around the lake. On the third trip, he said, water started splashing over the side of the heavily loaded boat. The children panicked, some jumped overboard and the boat overturned.

Seligman and Jack Harrison, a camp counselor also in the boat rescued several children. Bus drivers who had brought the children to the picnic and a Sea Scout saved others.

Two Upset in Clay Net Meet

CHICAGO (U)—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati had a heavy schedule today in the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament.

He had a third-round match with Sammy Giammalva of Houston and, should he beat Giammalva, another with Al Kuhn of Northwestern University.

Trabert, the country's No. 1 player and top-ranked for the Clay Court meet, defeated Bernard Frank of Evanston Tuesday, 6-1, 6-2, in a second-round match that took only 35 minutes.

The men's tourney lost its first seeded player. Fred Hagist of Berkeley, Calif., seeded No. 6, was eliminated by Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, 6-2, 6-2.

Another upset occurred in the women's division, where third-seeded Althea Gibson, Negro ace from New York, was upset by unseeded Lois Felix of Meriden, Conn., 6-1, 6-0. Miss Gibson is ranked seventh nationally. Defending men's champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, seeded second, and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., the 1952 winner who is seeded third, both breezed through second and third-round matches yesterday.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, the world's premier women's player is expected to arrive from London today to begin defense of her Clay Court crown.

Manakiki Open

CLEVELAND (U)—A field of 150 competitors tees off Thursday in the $25,000 Manakiki Open Golf tournament.

Cary Middlecoff, the 1953 Manakiki victor, has entered this year's contest. Last year he and Ted Krall tied at 275 on the regulation 72 holes and Middlecoff won the playoff.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (U)—The United States begins the annual long climb to the Challenge Round of the Davis Cup today when it meets the British West Indies in a first-round American zone match.

That the Americans will win and go on to the semi-final of the American zone is taken for granted. The United States Lawn Tennis Assn. assigned its second-line players to the task of whipping the local team. Last year, the United States, again using its younger players, scored a 5-0 conquest over the BWI.

Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., have been assigned to today's singles matches. Hal Burrow of Charlottesville, Va., may get into Thursday's doubles.

Presidential Talk Hits Conference of Governors

Attention Centers on Gov. Stratton, Several Others

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y. (AP)—Three Democrats and half a dozen Republicans claimed the political spotlight today as the nation's governors prepared to wind up their 46th annual conference with a call for a conference with President Eisenhower on a vast new road-building program.

Democratic parade of potential 1956 presidential candidates. Republican governors, who often furnish that party's nominee, hid themselves under a blanket assumption that President Eisenhower is going to be a candidate again.

Not Adverse

But some of them lifted the corners of the covert to make it known privately that they would not be adverse to being considered favorably if the President should decide not to run again.

In the vanguard of these was GOP Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, who turned away direct questions about his future aspirations but obviously wasn't very put out at those who asked.

The biggest unsettled political question of the conference, however, concerned a man who twice has been the Republican presidential nominee and whose friends think he would like to have a third shot at the grand prize — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Dewey has been an affable host to this conference — and nothing more. He said flatly he won't talk about the possibility that he might run for a fourth term as governor of New York in November.

Not Decided

Among those who know him best, Dewey was pictured as not finally decided. His friends said he doesn't want to run and would like to return to private law practice.

On the other hand, there are those close to him who believe that in the end his name will be found on the state ticket in November. He might be opposed by Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. or Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. of New York, credited here with being among the most likely Democratic nominees.

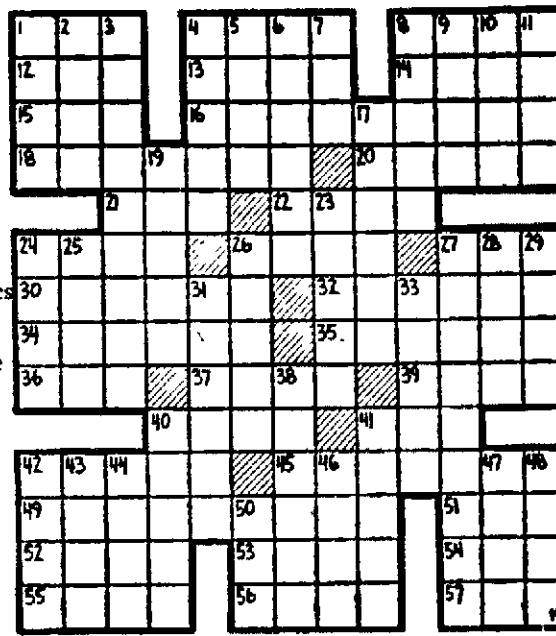

Meyer is a new star peeping out of the political firmament. Personable and energetic, he is likely to have New Jersey's delegation behind him in the 1956 Democratic convention. He still sticks to his support of former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois but Stevenson backing among other Democratic governors is lukewarm at best.

Lausche An Enigma

Lausche is the great enigma of the Democratic puzzle. Other Democrats say he seems to have no interest.

Followers of Williams don't try to conceal their hopes that the Michigan governor can win a new term in his home state and thus make himself available as a favorite son candidate, for whatever that is worth in the 1956 convention.

Pushing their way from the wings into the Republican limelight are some governors whose long-range prospects seem somewhat better than average to their supporters.

Governors Theodore R. McKeldin Jr. of Maryland, Dan Thornton of Colorado, John Lodge of Connecticut, Goodwin J. Knight of California and Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin are among these.

Will Meet Ike

The conference is expected to approve in its closing sessions today a resolution calling for a post-election conference with Eisenhower in Washington to decide on the management form for the 50-billion dollar highway program he has proposed. Most of the governors want the states to control the expenditures.

New Highway Planning Is Indicator of Our Future

$50 Billion Scheme Points Up Prospects of Big Growth

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty billion dollars is a lot of money.

Yet many a driver who tackled the more popular of the nation's highways over recent weekends would probably agree that the new roads the 50 billion dollars would buy could well be used. As President Eisenhower points out, "billions of hours" are wasted in traffic jams and delays.

Businessmen, as well as politicians, will have plenty to argue about in the President's proposal. The states and the federal government may debate who should build the roads, who should collect the gasoline and auto taxes.

Points Up Prospects

But for all there is one point of optimism. The president's stressing of the need for more roads points up one of the facets of the great growth prospects for the nation.

Many businessmen have insisted all along that the recent slowdown in industrial activity is but a breather before another upward push which will be brought about by the growth of population and the increasing demands of a still rising standard of living.

The immediate interests of business, however, in a great transcontinental highway program are wide.

Such a plan is bound to bring up the railroad's argument that their freight-carrying rivals, the trucking companies, will be getting tax-paid rights of way.

Stress Argument

The railroads stress the same argument as to their passenger-carrying competitors, the bus lines and the private autos which have siphoned so much intercity business away from the rail carriers.

But the rails are coming to have an interest of their own in feeder roads, at least. An example is the current argument that great downtown passenger terminals like Grand Central in New York are so hard to reach by car that terminals should be built on the fringes of the city where rail passengers could park their autos.

And now that some of the railroads are going in for carrying truck trailers piggy-back on flat cars between cities, they have a stake in better expressways and freeways within cities and their suburbs.

Welcome Project

Outside the field of controversy, business will welcome more and better highways for many reasons. An expanded highway system will speed deliveries of finished goods and raw materials, not only for city-based factories and stores, but for the increasing number of them that are taking to the suburbs and countryside. Present delivery delays costs industry untold millions of dollars.

Gasoline producers and sellers, makers of autos, tires and hosts of accessories and parts will welcome more roads, of course.
